About the catalogue

The idea to collate contacts within the offshore industry in Norway originated at the Norsesea base in Strømsteinen, Stavanger, in the mid-1960s. As operator of the Norsesea base, the Norsesea Exploration Services A/S needed a register for companies within the industry. By 1969, they had built up and updated address lists for companies both inside and outside the base. The eight to ten stencilled pages that had comprised the registry were then combined to form the 'Offshore mailing and telephone list'.

- 1969 Offshore mailing and telephone list
- 2000 Oilinfo
- 2010 OFFSHORE NORWAY

We have set up a separate website for Offshore Norway. However, the catalogue will of course carry on as an English-language reference - a tool that will be even better internationally.

"ONS and Offshore Norway have many common interests, which include promoting Norwegian energy expertise to an international audience. That is why we distribute the catalogue during ONS in addition to having a search module from Offshore Norway on our website."

Leif Johan Sevland, CEO of ONS

"The catalogue from Offshore Norway is sent to all of our international offices. Our local consultants promote Norwegian companies and Norwegian expertise to customers in the international market. And the catalogue from Offshore Norway is therefore an excellent resource for us."

Gullbrand Wangen, CEO of INTSOK

"We use the catalogue from Offshore Norway, among other things, when we have delegations visiting from Norway and abroad. The catalogue provides us with a quick summary of the Norwegian energy and offshore sector, and is a good tool to use when in dialogue with individuals and companies who wish to establish themselves in the region."

Jan Soppeland, CEO of Greater Stavanger
